Innovative interior signs

Gregory Signs, with the help of Interiors by Lynne, created a series of breath-taking city skyline murals where Dancap Private Equity Inc. holds branches worldwide. These breath-taking city skyline murals—such as The London Bridge in England, The CN Tower in Toronto, and the Chrysler Building in New York to name a few—are monochromatic images printed on frosted vinyl applied all across Dancap's newly remodeled building on Yonge Street.

Perforated vinyl extends all over the lunch room windows giving perfect privacy to its occupants and giving the outside viewers an artistic drawing of Dancap Productions.

Paying attention to every inch across all rooms, vinyl graphics with swooshes spread across most windows giving a sense of flow and tranquility to the environment.

Innovative outdoor signs

A couple of crossovers away—on Bathurst and Wilson—we can find the newest addition to Dancap's Catering. A new nonilluminated fabric awning. A state of the art heated-transfer process which covers the smallest of details in graphics was used for this project.

Gregory Signs, in collaboration with Interiors by Lynne, proudly have helped Dancap in providing its customers with extraordinary experiences through superior creativity.

← Dancap's Toronto skyline is as breath-taking as more than 40 buildings all along lake Ontario.
