

Sign Media Canada Camera Contest

Channel letter

This sign uses a 3.7 x 4.9-m (12 x 16-ft) illuminated sign box with a tensioning system for flexible faces. The logo was digitally printed by IG3 Integrated Graphics in Vaughan, Ont.

Submitted by: Boris Kaminsky,
Gregory Signs & Engraving, Vaughan, Ont.

Van-ity project

Creating the signage for this cube van entailed a combination of vinyl cutting, digital printing and hand lettering.

Submitted by: Tom Scodras,
Tom's Signs, Madeira Park, B.C.

Presentation-quality

This 5.5 x 9.6-m (18 x 31.5-ft) sign is broken in the centre and was installed in a 'Y' shape to improve visibility. There is a 51-mm (2-in.) reveal above and below the logo, which was produced on a large-format printer. The top panel is interchangeable for different messages.

Submitted by: Paula Cooke,
Back Alley deSign,
Penticton, B.C.

For this contest, only those submissions that were completed as requested—including a description and a publishable photo of a sign project—could be counted as eligible entries.

All of these eligible entries have now appeared in the pages of Sign Media Canada, including the June, August and October issues, plus this one.

In the end, though, the contest could only have one winner. That winner, who was chosen by random draw with no jury involved, is:

» Stephen Knapp, Auto Trim Design
St. Catharines, Ont.

Auto Trim Design is an automotive and accessories shop in the Niagara Region that also specializes in custom signs and graphics. Knapp's experience in this field has included working with aluminum extrusions, vinyl lettering, acrylic panels, wooden posts, signfoam, channel letters, plywood and digitally printed images.

Congratulations to Stephen Knapp, winner of the first-ever Sign Media Canada contest!
